TRINITY TRADE WINGS

Official Monthly Newsletter of the Department of Commerce & Management

EDITORIAL PULSE

From Editor's Desk – The Trade Wings

May marked a significant phase of transition, reflection, and professional preparation for the Department of Commerce. As the academic session gradually approached its conclusion and examinations neared, the month reflected a balanced blend of career readiness, student engagement, celebration, and academic support initiatives.

The Department continued its efforts toward creating meaningful learning experiences that extended beyond traditional classroom teaching. Through internship opportunities, professional workshops, farewell celebrations, and student engagement activities, learners experienced an environment that encouraged both professional growth and emotional connection with campus life.

The Internship Fair and Internship Readiness Workshop provided students with valuable exposure to corporate expectations and emerging opportunities, while workbook discussions, PYQ practice sessions, and doubt-clearing initiatives strengthened academic preparedness during examination season. Simultaneously, events such as El-Veda and Scribbling Day allowed students to celebrate memories, friendships, and achievements created throughout their academic journey.

The month also highlighted an important reality of student life: growth is not limited to academic performance alone. Personal development, confidence, adaptability, teamwork, and emotional intelligence continue to play equally important roles in shaping future professionals.

At Trinity, education is viewed as a journey that combines learning, experience, reflection, and preparation for life beyond classrooms. May stood as another meaningful chapter in this journey.

Food for Thought – The Provocation

"In a world where opportunities increasingly favour practical exposure, adaptability, and confidence, are students preparing only to pass examinations—or to succeed in professional life beyond classrooms?"

ALUMNI SPEAKS – The Legacy Lens

This month, we feature Nilabh Sharma, alumnus of Trinity Institute of Professional Studies and a dedicated CA aspirant. "Professional success is rarely achieved through shortcuts. Consistency, discipline, and the willingness to keep learning every day gradually create opportunities that appear impossible in the beginning."

Why This Matters

Nilabh Sharma's academic and professional journey reflects the importance of persistence and long-term commitment in highly competitive professional fields. His experiences highlight that success is often the result of continuous improvement, patience, and disciplined effort rather than instant achievement.

For commerce students, his insights serve as a reminder that professional growth requires balancing academic preparation with self-discipline, adaptability, and clarity of goals. Competitive environments demand not only subject knowledge but also resilience, focus, and the ability to remain motivated during challenging phases.

His journey also reinforces the idea that every stage of learning contributes toward building a strong professional foundation for the future.

Commerce in Action (Campus & Culture)

Internship Fair – Bridging Students with Opportunities

The Department of Commerce actively encouraged B.Com students of Semester IV to participate in the Internship Fair organised with the objective of connecting students with professional opportunities and industry exposure. The event provided students with a platform to interact with recruiters, understand internship expectations, and explore career pathways relevant to their academic backgrounds.

Students enthusiastically participated in recruitment interactions and showcased their communication skills, confidence, and professional preparedness. Several students successfully secured internship opportunities, reflecting their growing readiness for practical corporate experiences.

The Internship Fair served as an important learning experience by helping students understand recruitment processes, workplace expectations, and the significance of skill development alongside academics.

El-Veda – Farewell Celebration for Batch 2023–26

The Department of Commerce enthusiastically participated in El-Veda, the farewell celebration organised for the Batch of 2023–26. The event marked a memorable occasion filled with celebration, reflection, cultural performances, and recognition of student achievements.

Commerce students received appreciation and awards across academic and co-curricular categories, highlighting their consistent dedication, creativity, leadership, and active participation throughout their college journey. The event celebrated not only academic excellence but also the personalities, contributions, and memories created by students during their years at Trinity.

The farewell created an emotional and joyful atmosphere as students reflected on friendships, experiences, and milestones achieved together while preparing to step into new professional and academic journeys ahead.

Scribbling Day – Capturing Memories Beyond Classrooms

The Department observed Scribbling Day as a joyful and emotional student engagement activity wherein students celebrated friendships, shared messages, and captured memories from their college life.

The activity provided students with an opportunity to express gratitude, appreciation, and emotions through personal notes, messages, and interactions with peers. The atmosphere reflected warmth, nostalgia, and celebration as students revisited experiences that shaped their academic journey.

Scribbling Day highlighted the importance of emotional connection and campus culture in creating meaningful educational experiences. Beyond academics, such moments contribute significantly toward building friendships, confidence, belongingness, and lifelong memories.

Workshop by AIRX – Internship Readiness and Professional Preparation

The Department facilitated a workshop by AIRX focused on Internship Readiness and Professional Preparation for commerce students. The session aimed to prepare students for recruitment opportunities by strengthening their understanding of interview expectations, resume building, workplace conduct, and communication skills.

Students gained valuable guidance regarding professional presentation, confidence-building strategies, and the importance of industry-oriented skill development. The workshop also emphasized practical aspects of preparing for internships, including behavioural expectations and professional etiquette.

The session proved highly beneficial in helping students understand how academic learning can be effectively aligned with corporate requirements and evolving professional expectations.

Workbook Discussions, PYQ Practice, and Doubt-Clearing Sessions

As examinations approached, the Department of Commerce conducted workbook discussions, previous year question (PYQ) practice sessions, and doubt-clearing interactions to support students in their academic preparation.

Faculty members guided students through important concepts, examination strategies, and frequently asked questions while also addressing subject-related doubts in an interactive manner. These sessions helped students revise effectively and develop better conceptual clarity before examinations.

The initiative reflected the department's continuous commitment toward academic support, student mentoring, and creating a positive learning environment during examination periods.

Student Creative Corner – The Real Balance Sheet & Vision Ahead

The Real Assets

May's most valuable achievements extended beyond examinations and academic preparation. Internship opportunities, professional readiness workshops, and student engagement initiatives collectively contributed toward strengthening students' confidence and practical understanding.

The Internship Fair and AIRX Workshop enhanced students' awareness regarding recruitment expectations and workplace professionalism, while academic support sessions improved conceptual clarity and examination preparedness. Activities such as El-Veda and Scribbling Day strengthened emotional connections, teamwork, and student engagement.

Collectively, these experiences contributed toward building communication abilities, professional readiness, adaptability, emotional intelligence, and academic confidence among students.

The Goodwill

The goodwill of the Department of Commerce continued to strengthen through its consistent focus on student-centric learning and holistic development. By integrating professional preparation with emotional engagement and academic support, the department reinforced its commitment toward nurturing balanced and future-ready individuals.

Workshops, internship exposure, recognition platforms, and mentoring initiatives reflected the department's efforts to create an educational environment that values both professional excellence and personal growth.

The Real Liabilities

As examinations approached alongside internships, workshops, and farewell activities, students faced the challenge of balancing academics with participation and preparation. Managing multiple responsibilities simultaneously required discipline, focus, and effective time management.

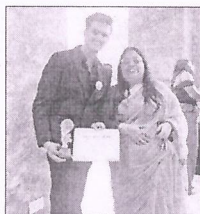

However, these experiences also helped students strengthen resilience, adaptability, and organizational abilities—qualities essential for future academic and professional success.

Faces of Trinity (People & Recognition) Hall of Distinction – Celebrating Student Achievements

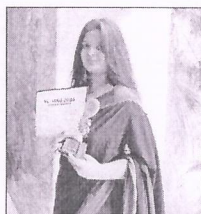

Financial Excellence – Financial Wizard Award

Bhumika Goswami received the Financial Wizard Award, recognising her analytical abilities, financial acumen, and consistent academic dedication. Her achievement reflects a strong understanding of commerce concepts and enthusiasm toward academic excellence.

Leadership with Values – Ethical Leader Award

Ansh Verma earned the title of Ethical Leader Award for demonstrating integrity, responsibility, and leadership qualities. His achievement reflects the importance of ethical values and responsible decision-making in both academic and professional environments.

Commitment Towards Sustainability – Green Warrior Award

Diya was honoured with the Green Warrior Award in recognition of her awareness and contribution toward environmental responsibility and sustainable practices. Her achievement highlights the growing importance of social and environmental consciousness among students.

Celebrating Confidence and Personality – Miss TIPS 2026

Khushi Mahana proudly earned the title of Miss TIPS 2026, reflecting confidence, personality, presentation skills, and active participation. Her accomplishment represents self-confidence, individuality, and balanced personal development.

Inspiration Through Growth – Incredible Transformation Award

Gaurav Kumar received the Incredible Transformation Award for his remarkable personal growth, dedication, and inspiring journey of self-improvement. His achievement stands as a reflection of perseverance, determination, and continuous development.

Career Corner – Placement Readiness Insights

May highlighted an important reality for students preparing to enter professional environments: career readiness is developed gradually through exposure, preparation, and active participation. Internship opportunities, workshops, and academic mentoring collectively helped students understand the expectations of modern workplaces.

The Internship Fair exposed students to recruitment interactions and corporate expectations, while the AIRX Workshop focused on strengthening confidence, communication, and professional behaviour. These initiatives reinforced that employers increasingly evaluate candidates on personality, adaptability, teamwork, and practical awareness alongside academic scores.

The workbook discussions and PYQ sessions further demonstrated the importance of disciplined preparation and conceptual clarity in building long-term academic confidence. Simultaneously, farewell celebrations and student engagement activities reminded learners about the value of emotional intelligence, teamwork, and campus relationships.

Key Recruiter Expectations

- ✓ Professional communication skills
- ✓ Confidence during interviews and interactions
- ✓ Practical understanding and adaptability
- ✓ Leadership and collaborative abilities
- ✓ Discipline and continuous learning mindset

Placement Readiness Tips

- Build confidence through participation and interaction
- Develop communication and networking abilities
- Stay updated regarding internships and opportunities
- Practice interview and resume-building skills regularly
- Maintain balance between academics and skill development

Reality Check

Organizations today increasingly recruit individuals who demonstrate confidence, adaptability, professionalism, and the willingness to learn continuously.

Final Reminder

Career readiness is not developed in a single semester or during placement season—it is built gradually through continuous learning, participation, and exposure. Every seminar attended, every interaction with industry experts, every conference participation, and every practical experience contributes toward building a stronger professional profile.

Students who actively engage beyond classrooms gain opportunities to strengthen communication, expand perspectives, and develop confidence that supports long-term growth. Consistency in learning and openness to new experiences remain essential for thriving in future professional environments.

The Knowledge Capsule (Industry × Future)

Internship Exposure and Career Readiness

The Internship Fair highlighted the growing importance of practical exposure in today's competitive professional environment. Internships help students understand workplace culture, develop confidence, and apply academic concepts in real situations.

Student Takeaway: Practical exposure bridges the gap between academic learning and professional expectations.

Professional Preparation Beyond Academics

The AIRX Internship Readiness Workshop emphasized that professional success requires more than theoretical knowledge. Communication skills, confidence, resume presentation, and workplace behaviour increasingly influence career opportunities.

Student Takeaway: Professional readiness is built through preparation, confidence, and continuous improvement.

Academic Preparation Through Smart Learning

Workbook discussions, PYQ practice, and doubt-clearing sessions highlighted the importance of strategic preparation during examinations. Conceptual clarity and regular revision remain essential for academic performance.

Student Takeaway: Consistent revision and conceptual understanding create stronger academic outcomes than last-minute preparation.

Celebrating Growth and Memories

Events such as El-Veda and Scribbling Day reminded students that college life is not defined solely by academics but also by experiences, friendships, teamwork, and memories created together.

Student Takeaway: Meaningful educational journeys are shaped equally by learning, relationships, and shared experiences.

Recognition and Personal Development

The awards and recognitions received by students reflected the growing importance of holistic development in educational institutions. Excellence today includes ethics, leadership, confidence, sustainability awareness, and personal growth.

Student Takeaway: Success becomes more meaningful when academic achievement is combined with character and personal development.

Trend Decoder – What Defines Future-Ready Graduates?

The rapidly changing professional environment increasingly values individuals who can combine academic knowledge with practical exposure, adaptability, and interpersonal skills. The activities conducted during May highlighted competencies that modern organizations actively seek in graduates.

Key Skills in Demand:

- Internship and Workplace Readiness
- Communication and Presentation Skills
- Confidence and Professional Conduct
- Adaptability and Time Management
- Leadership and Team Participation
- Emotional Intelligence and Interpersonal Skills

Implication for Students:

Academic learning continues to remain important, but employers increasingly prefer individuals who can apply knowledge practically, communicate effectively, and adapt confidently to changing professional environments.

One-Minute Case Study – “Preparation Beyond Examinations”

Two students prepare equally well for examinations and achieve strong academic scores. However, one student additionally participates in internship fairs, workshops, networking sessions, and student engagement activities.

During internship interviews, recruiters observe stronger communication, confidence, adaptability, and practical awareness in the student with broader exposure. Experiences beyond classrooms often help students understand professional expectations more effectively.

Lesson:

Professional success increasingly depends on combining academic preparation with practical

- AIRX Workshop = Professional Skills & Internship Preparation
- El-Veda = Celebration of Student Journey & Achievements
- Scribbling Day = Memories, Friendship & Student Bonding
- PYQ & Workbook Sessions = Academic Support & Examination Readiness

Reflection: Commerce education today extends beyond theoretical understanding and increasingly focuses on preparing students emotionally, academically, and professionally for future opportunities and responsibilities.

Closing Line

May reflected a meaningful combination of preparation, celebration, and personal growth within the Department of Commerce. Through internship opportunities, workshops, academic support initiatives, farewell celebrations, and student recognitions, students experienced learning that extended beyond classrooms and textbooks.

The month reinforced that education is not only about examinations or qualifications but also about developing confidence, adaptability, and readiness for future challenges. Active interaction, application, and experience contributed to transforming students into more aware and future-ready individuals. At Trinity, learning is not limited to academic success; it is transformed into experiences that inspire growth, opportunity, and lifelong memories.

Prashant Kishor sent to 14-day judicial custody in BPSC exam row

Divyansh Sharma
Semester 4, BA(JMC)

Jan Suraj Party chief Prashant Kishor was hospitalized on Tuesday after his health deteriorated. He was shifted to the ICU. Kishor was continuing his hunger strike at home to press his demand for the cancellation of the exam. The exam in question is the recently conducted 70th Combined Preliminary Exam of the Bihar Public Service Commission (BPSC). There are allegations of a question paper leak. This hospitalization came a day after Kishor was granted unconditional bail. This was just hours after being sent to 14-day judicial custody.

Patna. He was arrested early on Monday morning.

According to a senior police officer, Kishor and his supporters were removed from the protest site. The demonstration was being held near a restricted area, making it "illegal." Kishor was alleged that security personnel manhandled and slapped Kishor while taking him into custody. Patna District Magistrate (DM) Chandrashekhar Singh said, "Yes, Kishor and his supporters, who were on a dharna at Gandhi Maidan, were arrested by police on Monday morning."

Kishor had been observing the hunger strike since January 2. He was supporting students demanding the cancellation of the BPSC exam following allegations of a question paper leak. Meanwhile, following Kishor's arrest, tensions escalated in the area. A clash broke out between police and supporters of Jan Suraj chief Prashant Kishor. Kishor's arrest triggered widespread condemnation from his supporters. They accused the government of attempting to silence the protest. They believe the government fears the unity Kishor had fostered among the masses.

arrested on the fifth day of his protest over an alleged question paper leak in the December 13 examination conducted by the Bihar PSC.

According to Jan Suraj party supporters, police took Kishor to Patna AIIMS for a medical examination. They also

TN Governor once again walks out of the Assembly without delivering his speech

Trinity News Desk

On January 6, Tamil Nadu Governor R.N. Ravi completed a hat-trick of walkouts from the Legislative Assembly. He claimed that the national anthem was not played at the beginning of his official address, despite his request. Instead, the Tamil Nadu State Anthem, Tamil Thaaai Vaazhthu (Invocation to Mother Tamil), was sung.

In February 2024, the Governor had similarly walked out of the Assembly, refusing to deliver his speech because only Tamil Thaaai Vaazhthu was sung. In 2023, he had also refused to read out the names of Periyar (E.V. Ramasamy Naicker, the revolutionary social reformer), Anna (C.N. Annadurai, former Tamil Nadu Chief Minister), B.R. Ambedkar, and Kalaigarnar (M. Karunanidhi, former Tamil Nadu Chief Minister). Though no reasons were provided at the time, the Governor, later stated in a newspaper interview that the speech given to him was "full of materials where it was neither policies nor programmes, but propaganda. They were inaccurate, they were lies."

This year, the reason for the Governor's walkout was explained in a note released by Raj Bhavan on the social media platform X. The note stated: "The Constitution of Bharat and the National Anthem were once again insulted in the Tamil Nadu Assembly today. Respecting the National Anthem is among the first Fundamental Duties as enshrined in our Constitution. It is sung in all the state legislatures at the beginning and the end of the Governor's address. Today, on the Governor's arrival in the House, only Tamil Thaaai Vaazhthu [invocation to the Tamil Mother] was sung.

The Governor respectfully reminded the House of its Constitutional duty and fervently appealed to the Hon'ble Chief Minister, who is the leader of the House, and the Hon'ble Speaker to ensure the National Anthem was sung. However, they stubbornly refused. It is a matter of grave concern. Not willing to be a party to such brazen disrespect to the Constitution and the National Anthem, the Governor, in deep anguish, left the House." Interestingly, this statement appeared on X just minutes after the Governor walked out of the Assembly.

Bangladesh vows to pursue Sheikh Hasina's return from India, may seek global support

Trinity News Desk

Bangladesh's interim government has intensified efforts to secure the extradition of former Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina from India. Law Adviser Asif Nazrul has warned that India's refusal to extradite Hasina would constitute a violation of the extradition treaty between the two nations. He stated that the Ministry of Foreign Affairs would take necessary steps within the international community to address the issue.

Sheikh Hasina, 77, fled Bangladesh on August 5, 2024, after massive student-led protests led to the collapse of her 16-year rule. The International Crimes Tribunal (ICT) in Bangladesh has issued arrest warrants for Hasina and several former officials, accusing them of crimes against humanity and genocide.

In December 2024, Bangladesh formally requested India's assistance in extraditing Hasina for judicial proceedings. While the Indian government acknowledged the request, it has not provided any further details. This lack of action has strained the historically strong trade and cultural ties between the two South Asian nations.

The interim government, led by Nobel laureate Muhammad Yunus, has expressed serious concerns about India's handling of the matter. Hasina is seen by many in India as a trusted ally, complicating the situation. Yunus has indicated that Bangladesh will seek international support if India refuses to comply with the extradition request.

The extradition issue has escalated tensions between the two countries, with both emphasizing the importance of adhering to international agreements and treaties. Meanwhile, Yunus has criticized what he described as "fake growth" during Hasina's rule, though he did not elaborate on this claim. He stressed the need for broad-based, inclusive growth and for reducing wealth inequality in the country.

Bangladesh, a Muslim-majority nation of 170 million people, experienced accelerated annual growth of nearly 8% during the 2017/18 financial year compared to about 5% when Hasina first took office in 2009. However, the impacts of COVID-19 and the war in Ukraine have since slowed the economy.

The outcome of this diplomatic dispute remains uncertain as both nations navigate the complexities of international law and their bilateral relations.
