VISIT TO CYBER CELL

Date	8 th August 2023
Topic	Cyber Cell Visit
Venue	Sector 16 Dwarka Police station

On 8th August 2023, the Law department of Trinity Institute of Professional Studies organized a Visit to the Cyber cell in collaboration with Delhi State Legal Services Authority to understand the workings of this specialized unit and its role in addressing cybercrimes and maintaining digital security.

Main Objectives of the Visit were as follows:

- Gain insights into the functioning of the Cyber Cell and its significance in the realm of cybersecurity.
- Understand the techniques employed by the Cyber Cell for cybercrime detection, prevention, and investigation.
- Learn about the collaboration between the Cyber Cell and other law enforcement agencies, as well as its role in legal proceedings related to cybercrimes.

The visit began with an overview of the Cyber Cell's mandate, organizational structure, and key responsibilities. A comprehensive discussion highlighting the evolving nature of cyber threats, common attack vectors, and recent trends. The students discussed about - Network forensic, Data recovery, Mobile forensic there types and crypto security's. The Cyber Cell team provided a hands-on demonstration of various tools and techniques used for digital forensics, malware analysis, and incident response. Representatives from the Cyber Cell and the Law Department engaged in a dialogue about the legal aspects of cybercrime investigation and the collaboration between law enforcement and legal experts.

The officers highlighted the view on some guidelines for the students like-

1. Be selective about what information you make public. Be cautious while posting online any information that can personally identify you, a family member, or friend on a public site like a blog, or online white pages, or job hunt sites, or in any other place. Anyone on the Internet can see the information. Sensitive information includes real name, date of birth, gender, town, e-mail address, school name, place of work, and personal photos. Fraudsters, cheats and online perverts can misuse this information to your detriment

2. Pay attention to the risks associated with e-mails. and think twice before you open attachments or click links in e-mail-even if you know the sender-as these can be used to transmit spam and viruses to your computer. Never respond to e-mail asking you to provide personal information, especially your account number or password, even if it seems to be from a business you trust. Reputable businesses will not ask you this information in e-mail. Never click on links provided in an email, unless you are sure of the sender and the purpose of email. Instead, use a search engine to find the site. Don't forward spam, whether it's a cute 'thought of the day', 'set of jokes', 'amazing photo', 'recipe tree' or similar email, if you don't personally know the sender. The email may be a scam designed to collect the email accounts – and relationships – of everyone you share it with.
3. Never, try to meet a person with whom you've interacted only online without taking somebody else along and such meeting must always be in a public place. Remember, people are not always who they say they are. People often feel uncomfortable setting safety boundaries because they don't want to offend someone; but good intentioned people will understand and encourage you to set safety requirements, and it is the crooks who want you to feel guilty about it.
4. Know the Privacy Policy and Terms of Service of any service you use. Create an environment of safety for yourself by understanding how a website that you use, treats your privacy and information. That fine print may tell you the company can own, resell, rent, or give your information to anyone they want. If it does that then find a more respectful site.

A question-and-answer session post these guidelines were asked to clarify doubts and seek further insights into specific topics. The illustrations and the basic knowledge about the cyber cases was perfect for making the students clear about the basics of cell. The police officer made sure that the students took part enthusiastically and hence he posed questions as well as shared his insights. The students were extremely glad to listen and grasp the knowledge which the dignitaries had to offer.
